

Eugene Beaulieu

Program Director, International Economics

Dr. Beaulieu is a Professor in the Department of Economics at the University of Calgary and is Program Director, International Economics at The School of Public Policy. He completed his PhD at Columbia University in May, 1997 and began his appointment here as an Assistant Professor that summer. Before pursuing a doctorate at Columbia, he worked as economist for the Government of Kenya and the Bank of Canada. Dr. Beaulieu's principal area of research is empirical international economics, with an emphasis on political economy, causes and consequences of international trade policy, as well as economic development. He held the PetroCanada Young Innovators Award in 1997 and the Killam Resident Fellowship in 2003. During the 2004/05 academic year, Dr. Beaulieu spent a sabbatical as the Norman Robertson Fellow at the International Trade Canada and a Visiting Scholar at the Department of Economics at Carleton University. Dr. Beaulieu sits on the editorial boards of Canadian Foreign Policy; the Forum for Research in Empirical International Trade (eiit.org) and manages the on-line working paper series "Positive Political Economics" for IDEAS (ideas.repec.org). Dr. Beaulieu has served as an advisor to the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and serves on the International Trade Advisory Committee at Statistics Canada.

Research/interests:

- 1) Empirical international economics
- 2) Political economy and international trade policy
- 3) Economic development