

Kenneth McKenzie

Kenneth McKenzie attended Queen's University, the University of Calgary and the University of Saskatchewan. Dr. McKenzie is a member of the Editorial Board for Finances of the Nation for the Canadian Tax Association. Additionally, he has worked as the Editor and Associate Editor for Canadian Public Policy, as a member of the Executive Council for the Canadian Economics Association, on the Advisory Board for the John Deutsch Institute at Queen's University and on the Editorial Board for the Canadian Tax Journal.

He has consulted widely on tax policy, both nationally for provincial and federal governments, and internationally with the World Bank and the IMF. Dr. McKenzie has published extensively, and his research focuses on public economics, taxation and resource and environmental economics.

Research/interests:

- 1) Public Economics
- 2) Taxation
- 3) Resource and Environmental Economics