Lisa Young

Lisa Young, Ph.D, is Director of Graduate Programs at The School of Public Policy, and a Professor of Political Science. With a background in Canadian politics, she teaches courses focused on governance and the politics of public policy. She is frequently heard on local and national media commenting on Alberta and Canadian politics and public policy.

She is author or co-author of several books, including Feminists and Party Politics, Rebuilding Canadian Party Politics, Advocacy Groups, and Money, Politics & Democracy. Her current research includes a study of policy responses to the threat of foreign interference in Canadian elections, a survey of donors to Canadian political parties, and various dimensions of post-secondary education policy.

She is currently President of the Prairie Political Science Association, and has served on the boards of several organizations, including the Canadian Association for Graduate Studies and the Canadian Federation of Humanities and Social Sciences.