Ali Jadidzadeh

Research Fellow
Economic and Social Policy
School of Public Policy
University of Calgary
Calgary, Alberta, Canada

Ali is a researcher with a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Calgary, where his focus was on applied econometrics. He currently holds the position of Research Fellow at the School of Public Policy, University of Calgary, and serves as an adjunct Professor at the University of Tehran. As a member of the social policy team at the School of Public Policy, his research primarily centers around homelessness-related issues. He applies his empirical skill sets to work with large datasets to investigate the effective design of Housing First and emergency shelter programs aimed at benefiting and supporting those without permanent housing. His other research interests encompass issues related to energy economics.

Last updated: November 9, 2023